● EDUCATION AND TRAINING

09/2018 – 05/2021 – Trento, Italy

MASTER DEGREE IN SOCIOLOGY AND SOCIAL RESEARCH – Università degli Studi di Trento

- The course, entirely conducted in English, is focused on social research methods and techniques. In particular, I had the opportunity to improve my research skills within qualitative and quantitative paradigms. During the course, I also had the possibility to deepen several themes, including urban, social media, and cultural studies.
- I have concluded my academic path with the thesis "An Ethnography of Urban Travel. Social distancing norms and atmospheres in the metro of Milan during the Covid-19 pandemic", wrote under the supervision of Professor Andrea Mubi Brighenti. This thesis is an explorative research on social distancing, where I analyse norms negotiation through both travel experience and passengers' interactions.

09/2015 – 09/2018 – Milano, Italy

BACHELOR DEGREE IN SOCIOLOGY – Università degli Studi di Milano-Bicocca

- The course has introduced me to sociology and provided me with the theoretical and methodological tools necessary to understand social phenomena. Here I found out my interest in urban sociology and the motivation to pursue an academic career.
- The final thesis of my bachelor degree is titled "Analisi delle Risorse dei Soggetti Multilocali nel Nuovo Mercato del Lavoro, Studio del Caso Arvedi tra Centralizzazione e Decentralizzazione", and it was written under the supervision of Professor Matteo Colleoni. This research is a deepening of a wider project on the understanding of multilocality. In particular, it was designed to investigate multilocality as a skill in the labour market.

● RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

20/06/2020 – CURRENT

Participation in a research project with ERC HOMInG

- Research collaboration with Professor Paolo Boccagni and PhD Alberto Brodesco, starting from the work conducted during my internship at Università degli Studi di Trento.
- The research aims to explore the ways domestic space is displayed and resignified through the frames of YouTube during the first lockdown in Italy in spring 2020.
- I have focused on the methodological aspect starting from the conclusion of the work on a dataset started during the internship. I have also investigated the quantitative aspects of the analysis.

29/04/2020 – 19/06/2020

Curricular Internship at Università degli Studi di Trento

- The internship, participating in the ERC HOMInG project, was conducted under the supervision of Professor Paolo Boccagni.
- In line with the ERC HOMInG project, the focus of the internship was an exploratory analysis of the perceptions and representations of the "home" in the public virtual social sphere linked to the lockdown policies in Italy.
- I focus on the methodological aspect, having the opportunity to work on the construction of a dataset composed of YouTube videos.
- At the end of the internship, I had the opportunity to publish a post on the ERC HOMInG website, presenting the preliminary results and the methodological choices adopted.

01/2018 – 07/2018

Participation in a research project with Università degli Studi di Milano-Bicocca

- The final paper proposed by two other colleagues and me in the Environmental Sociology exam, during the last year of my bachelor degree, was chosen to be enlarged and deepened in a research project that saw the collaboration of Professor Matteo Colleoni and PhD Chiara Vitrano.
- The research is titled "Socially expected durations and strategies on the move". It aims to study the socio-territorial identity of multilocal subjects in the interplay of their mobility and socially expected durations.
